

An IEEE TGRS Reviewer Asked Student to Review Article in His Name

Recently, we read a post on the Chinese social media RedNote, also named Xiaohongshu, that a reviewer (referred to as A) of "IEEE Transactions on Geoscience and Remote Sensing" asked his student (referred to as B) to review an article in A's name, which may violate the journal's policy.

An IEEE TGRS Reviewer Asked Student to Review Article in His Name

Although the 5GH team has no details about the name of A, we have some cues: (1) The student B claimed in his post that he (the student B) also received an invitation from the journal to review the SAME article. And (2) the family name of the student B is "Liu" according to the screenshot of the invitation letter.

The 5GH team is asking the journal to open an investigation on this matter.

This article is licensed to the 5GH Foundation under a CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 International License